Dear Collection Team

It seems like anyone in Michigan can access copyrighted material available through your Open Library In-Library Lending program without authentication. They just have to set up a personal account with Open Library. For example it seems like anyone with an Open Library account can "borrow" this e-book for 2 weeks before it melts:

http://openlibrary.org/books/OL7419537M/Reluctant_Witness

Is the whole State of Michigan now geo-authenticated? I thought they'd have to go through EZ proxy first but that does not seem to be the case, people just get right in.

Thank you very much. Any assistance is greatly appreciated.
